Do-Nothing Policy
Death at a Distance
To Detect Falsehood
Four More in Family

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

EVERY NEWSPAPER, congressman, clergyman and at least [illegible] others have discussed the Wickersham prohibition report. The discussion will continue, with many members telling what they think. The fact is that the commission recommends, by a majority vote, to do nothing except spend more money on enforcement which, according to the commission's unanimous opinion, [illegible] enforce.

The President approves the commission's condemnation of repeal or modification. Therefore, there will be no change in the law or the national policy until March 4, 1933, in any case and the public mind and the Presidential mind should turn to other things. This nation was not established, and presidents are not elected, to spend an eternity discussing whisky and beer.

DISTANCE LENDS enchantment, perhaps. It surely creates indifference. Under the heading, "Millions Dead of Famine," you read six lines of Associated Press copy to the effect that in China's [illegible] province alone 2,000,000 have died of hunger and 400,000 have been sold into slavery within a short time. Are we our brothers' keepers? Not if the brothers live [illegible] miles away.

CHICAGO'S police have a "lie meter" that, attached to the arm of a suspect under cross examination, tells when he is lying. It works because the human heart, not taught to lie, changes its beat when the anxious process of lying begins. In India barefooted natives giving testimony lie with straight faces. But they twitch their big toes and lawyers watch their feet. A well-known capitalist twitched his thumb when bluffing at poker and lost large sums until he began holding his cards with four fingers, the thumb kept hidden.

THE RED CROSS in Arkansas has begun feeding children that reach the public schools too hungry to study. And Arkansas is not the only state with hungry children. In Ohio a rural school principal wrote asking how she could keep her 135 school children from starving. Inspection of lunch boxes revealed in some cases a cold potato, in others a hard biscuit with a small piece of salt pork.

How soon will a government that has decided to feed children's minds with books and teachers realize that a starved body cannot learn, and add food for the body to provide food for the brain? If the government wants to help the farmers, afflicted with overproduction of food why not let the farms feed the children? That would do more to help farmers than storing 90,[illegible] bushels of government wheat in grain elevators.

THIS IS WRITTEN in a fertile county. F. A. Schense, farmer, has four more children than he had last week. His wife with two children on each arm, looks happy, but tired. Her two boys and and two girls were born between 9 and 9:25 in the evening. They weigh 17 pounds and are healthy. This offsets four young women that keep their maiden names in marriage and decide that having children is bad for the figure.

2 SENTENCED IN ROUNDUP OF 18 MEN, BOYS

Two Youths Turned Over to Court in Connection with Burglaries.

CRIME PROBE CONTINUES

G. C. and Sam Partlow Plead Guilty To Receiving Property from Boys.

Officials today were preparing to cross two recent burglaries off the list of unsolved crimes following the conviction and sentencing of two men in municipal court this morning, as an extensive crime investigation involving 18 men and youths continued.

G. C. Partlow, 33, of north of Bucyrus, and Sam Partlow, 43, of 879 Bennett street, two men arrested in the roundup, were given 30-day workhouse sentences when they pleaded guilty this morning to charges of receiving and concealing stolen property. The property involved was taken in recent burglaries from the Beatty antique shop and the Welch second hand store, both on West Center street.

The loot consisted principally of guns, including several rifles and revolvers.

Believed To Be "Fences"

Although Chief William E. Marks today said the probe had not gone far enough to definitely reveal the setup used by what appears to be two well organized "gangs" made up chiefly of minors, he believed that the two men were acting as a "fence" for the gangs, or an outlet for the stolen property.

Officials today indicated that two of the juveniles, who will be brought before Probate Judge Oscar Gast probably Friday, will be charged with the burglaries of the Beatty and Welch stores. A variety of other charges with which officials hope to clear up between six and eight recent burglaries in Marion, probably will be drawn, Chief Marks said. The burglaries charged up to the youthful prisoners were not revealed by Chief Marks today.

Two Others Fined

Two other men arrested in the roundup but who have not been definitely implicated in the recent crimes, were fined $10 each in municipal court yesterday when they pleaded guilty to intoxication charges.

G. C. Partlow was arrested at his farm north of Bucyrus last Tuesday morning when his name was implicated in the Beatty and Welch burglaries. Officials obtained several guns which had been stolen in the two burglaries, but believe the burglaries were committed by the minors, who passed the loot on to Partlow for sale. Sam Partlow, arrested here this morning and sentenced with G. C. Partlow, was in possession of a gun police say was stolen in the burglaries.

Will at "Opera"

(Will Rogers Special)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22— Frank Hawkes and Casey Jones and I flew here yesterday from N. Y. Went up to the "Opera Comique" and heard the cast argue in both houses; Senator Thomas from our great old state of Oklahoma was trying to get a little appropriation for the Indians. Vice President Curtis and I were the only two who applauded.

It's tough to get help for even the little white brothers, much less us injuns. The lower house was arguing over the soldier bonus, whether to give 'em some aid now or get 'em another war.

Had lunch with Al Smith in New York yesterday at the Democratic Club; the Republican Club is on the same street half block away, and a speakeasy opened between the two; talking about a location.

KNOX COUNTY YOUTH BEST FARM SPEAKER

Robert C. Clark Takes First Place in Contest; Marion County Students Also Winners.

From a variety of theoretical cures advanced for all present day farm ills came the logical and well presented oration of Robert C. Clark of Fredericktown, Knox county, to win the title of champion public speaker among vocational agricultural students of six counties in a contest at the Central Junior building here last night.

Clark chose "Why Educate for Farm Life" for the topic of his oration which won him first place over 13 other contestants. Two Marion county entrants, Willard Rush of Green Camp and Harry Sigrist of Agosta placed second and third.

To Go to Columbus

The Fredericktown youth will represent Marion and five other counties comprising the sixth district in a state contest at Ohio State university Feb. 4. Last year Marion county produced the state champion, Robert Millisor of LaRue. After defeating other Ohio contestants in Columbus, Millisor placed second in a regional contest at Springfield, Mass. He was present last night.

Clark gave an interesting discussion of the need of rural education. He had the subject well in hand, referring to notes only occasionally. His talk was not as forceful as was Millisor's a year ago, but it was well given.

Willard Rush of Green Camp discussed "The Farm Bureau" in an oration that won second place. The sincerity of Harry Sigrist of Agosta in delivering his oration, "Why Join the Grange," probably entered into his winning the third prize. He gave the impression of being thoroughly convinced on the usefulness of the grange, and answered difficult questions concerning the organization when quizzed by Prof A. C. Kennedy of Ohio State university after his oration. All contestants were questioned by Prof. Kennedy, who judged the contest.

Takes Fourth Place

An oration by Cecil Guinther of Martel, "What Is Needed To Make the Farm Pay," was ruled the fourth best by Prof. Kennedy, al-

JURY RESUMES DELIBERATIONS

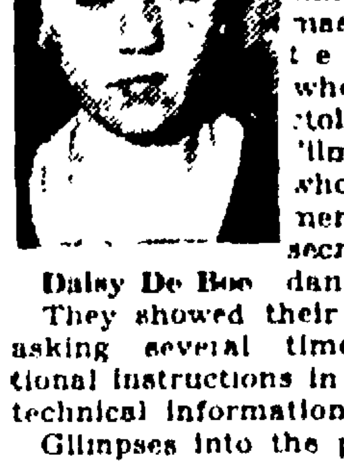
Long Session Yesterday Fails To Produce Verdict in De Boe Trial.

CONFIDENT OF ACQUITTAL

Former Secretary to Motion Picture Star Retains Characteristic Composure.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 22— Bewildered by problems of impulsive youth, haphazard bookkeeping and Hollywood off-screen life, twelve elderly men and women today resumed deliberation on the fate of Daisy De Boe, charged with the theft of $15,300 from Clara Bow, film redhead.



Daisy De Boe

The seven men and five women jurors, none of whom belong to Daisy's or Clara's generation, groped vainly for six and one-half hours yesterday, seeking to determine from a mass of complex testimony whether Daisy stole from the film red-head whom she formerly served as secretary - confidante.

They showed their confusion by asking several times for additional instructions in balloting and technical information.

Glimpses into the private life of the screen flapper and glances at cancelled checks that told of the frenzied spending of more than $350,000 by the Bow household in less than two years, caught by the jurors as they heard the testimony, added to the problem of the jury.

If convicted on all of the 35 counts of grand theft against her Daisy would face a term of 35 to 350 years, should the one-to-ten-year sentence on each count be made to run consecutively.

The jury foreman, Ralph Boynton, asked last night if it were necessary for a ballot attempt on each count to be a unanimous one, which indicated a balloting attempt had ended in disagreement. He was instructed in the affirmative.

The blonde ex-secretary to the screen flapper waited in the courtroom with a large crowd of curious until the jurors retired. She retained the composure that has marked her appearance since the trial began.

She expressed confidence that she would be acquitted.

Miss Bow, who for several days has been confined to her Beverly Hills home with a cold and nervousness brought on by the trial, did not appear yesterday.

DRY LAW STRIFE HOLDS RANK AS LEADING TOPIC

Apparent Remobilization of Wets and Drys Follows Board's Report.

SENATE STORM BREWING

Resolution Seeks To Ascertain How Commission Reached Conclusions.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—The wave of prohibition activity unleashed by the Wickersham commission report surged on today in and out of congress, developing what appeared to be a remobilization of wet and dry forces for intensified conflict.

Beyond the still stirring excitement over newspaper stories that the commission had been influenced by President Hoover to change its report—these drew emphatic denial from the law enforcement group itself—there was a well marked tendency on the part of some friends and foes alike to pin the future political fortunes of the President to the dry cause.

Senate Storm Signs

In the senate storm was brewing. Two possible sources of an outburst appeared; the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democratic prohibition opponent for an inquiry into how the commission reached its conclusions, and the pending Howell bill to give the District of Columbia a stringent enforcement act.

The house had a prohibition battle on appropriations scheduled for today. An alliance of independent anti-prohibitionists and the organized wet block were seeking to oust from the justice department bill allowances for prohibition educational work, informers, wire-tapping and purchasing liquor evidence as well as for expanding the force of agents by 500.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, issued a statement last night criticizing both the commission report and the President's failure to indorse the complete document.

See Hoover Clearly "Dry."

Spokesmen of two dry organizations, the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the W. C. T. U., said the President's message removed all doubt but that Mr. Hoover was aligned on the dry side.

Yesterday the supreme court took up the Clark decision holding the eighteenth amendment invalid, hearing arguments for and against it. An early decision is looked for.

NURSE ASKS $10,000 OF GALION MERCHANT

Breach of Promise Charged in Action by Arlene Seebach of Marion.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, Jan. 22—A breach of promise suit for $10,000 was filed in common pleas court here this afternoon by Miss Arlene Seebach of Marion against Erman Herr, Galion clothier.

Miss Seebach, former nurse at Marion City hospital, charges in her suit that Herr induced her to resign her position as nurse at the hospital the first of last October, saying that they would be married later in the month. Pre-nuptial parties were given for her. Herr has since refused to marry her, she claims.

Miss Seebach is represented by Attorney Alfred Leuthold. Miss Seebach, whose home is on Mary street in Marion, worked at City hospital there for about two years before she resigned. Recently she has been on special duty cases.

ASKS REPEAL

Matthew Woll has been chosen by the American Federation of Labor at its meeting at Miami, Fla., to head a committee of four, which will appear before congress to ask the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment on behalf of 40,000,000 union men.

PAUL SEITER BADLY INJURED

Mystery Surrounds Manner in Which Marion Man Suffers Bruises.

CONDITION IS CRITICAL

Victim Unable To Shed Light on Mishap Which Occurred Jan. 12.

Mysterious bruises about the head and face, from which he has been suffering since Monday night, Jan. 12, may cause the death of Paul Seiter, 29, of 342 Olney avenue, who is confined in a Columbus hospital, it was learned today.

On the night in question Seiter stumbled into his home here, beaten and bruised about the face, and was unable to give an account of what had happened. Whether he was attacked by holdup men, knocked down by a machine or stumbled and fell on his way home is unknown by his family and attending physicians.

Condition Critical

He has been unable to give an account of what had occurred and last Wednesday his condition became more serious. Today his family reported him to be in a critical condition.

Doctors have not yet attempted to take an X-ray of his bruises due to his weakened condition. Should he improve in strength, the X-ray will be made immediately, it was said.

Seiter, is well known in Marion, having been graduated from Harding High school and having taken part in social affairs. He is employed as an accountant in a Columbus office.

He was accustomed to returning home occasionally on the 11:30 p. m. interurban car. Neighbors who had been to a theater said they had not returned home on the night of Jan. 12 until that hour and that it was much later when the young man dragged himself up the porch of his home.

Disprove Robbery Theory

For a time he was unconscious, but Saturday was able to recognize members of his immediate family. Only those in the family are permitted to visit him. His conversation Saturday was coherent and he was permitted to talk for a while. His condition was not alluded to, and he made no statement to assist in clearing the mystery. His physicians fear that questioning him before he is stronger may cause a serious relapse.

A hold-up theory was disproved when it was found that his money and watch were in his pockets, and that except for [illegible] on his head he [illegible]

SIX GUNMEN GET CASH AND JEWELS VALUED AT $2,670

Victims of Spectacular Ohio Train Holdup Awakened and Routed from Berths; One Aroused from Nightmare Is Shot.

BOARD TRAIN AT CAREY, OVER HOUR ON JOB

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Jan. 22—Six masked train bandits boarded a Florida bound Pullman of the Big Four Ohio state special at Carey, O., shot and seriously wounded one of the passengers and robbed five others of cash and jewelry valued at $2,670 while the train sped through the morning darkness early today.

The robbery was not discovered until the train pulled into this city. As the unsuspecting crew slackened the pace of the special the bandits dropped off and made their getaway before police and deputy sheriffs could pick up their trail.

Three women were among the victims. The wounded passenger was Edwin K. Nelson, Jr. of Tampa, Fla. The bandits caught him as he was coming out of a nightmare and when their commands failed to silence his screams one of them fired. The bullet pierced his right arm and chest. He was taken to the Mary Rutan hospital here in critical condition.

Mrs L. G. Dearing of Chattanooga Tenn., was robbed of a diamond ring valued at $2,000.

Mrs E. G. Zachrias, of Atlanta, Ga., was relieved of a diamond studded wrist watch valued at $500 and $60 in cash.

Sound Sleepers

Another couple on the train, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Young of Toronto, Ont., slept soundly through the shooting, the shuffling of feet as the other passengers were being herded into a parlor car with the Pullman porter and the brakeman.

Their presence was not known to their fellow passengers and the bandits overlooked them when they ransacked the berths.

The raided car was one of several Pullmans on the train. About 3 a. m. the train was sidetracked near Carey to permit another train to pass. The bandits apparently boarded the Pullman at this point.

One of the first persons they encountered was Flagman George Bletticher of Bellefontaine. They locked him up in a compartment, covered the Pullman porter and proceeded with the robbery as the train went ahead on the 40 miles stretch to Bellefontaine.

One of the bandits stationed himself at the entrance near the smoking room. Two others went to the platform adjoining a parlor car and the remaining three started rousing the passengers.

Shot Silences Cries

Apparently they tried to awaken Nelson first. The other passengers said he told them that he was screaming at the top of his voice when a gun was thrust in his face. The shot that silenced his cries ruined the composure of the bandits.

All but the soundly sleeping passengers were awakened by the noise and as they were herded into the parlor car one of them, Mrs. McPherson, secreted $300 in her corset.

Then in their hurried search of the berths the robbers overlooked a small purse belonging to Mrs. Zachrias, which contained rings and a pearl necklace. Mrs. Zachrias at first was erroneously identified as a Detroit woman.

While the robbery was in progress Flagman Morri[illegible] entered the Pullman. He was held with the passengers.

The robbery occupied more than an hour while the train proceeded from Carey, about 40 miles north of here, to Bellefontaine. They disturbed no other car.

Stories of Victims

Victims of the robbery had excited stories to tell upon arrival at Cincinnati.

Mrs. Dearing said the first intimation that anything unusual was happening was when she heard loud talking, followed by the shots that wounded Nelson.

She thought then that two [illegible] were fighting, until a man [illegible] his head into her berth [illegible]

COURT HOLDS FATE OF TRIO

Three Convicted of Galion Holdup Slaying Seek To File Appeals.

SLATED TO DIE JAN. 30

State Supreme Judges Take Pleas of Attorneys Under Consideration.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 23—Arguments asking leave to file petitions in error in the cases of Fred Massa, Earl Sites and Kenneth McCartney, convicted slayers of Ralph Wilcox, a Galion filling station proprietor, during a holdup last June, were presented today to the state supreme court.

The trio, all of Mansfield, now are in death row at the Ohio penitentiary, awaiting electrocution Jan. 30.

Massa was represented by E. J. Myers of Bucyrus, George Cobla of Crestline represented McCartney and Sites' case was presented by Matt Mosbacher of Galion. J. Dudley Sears, Crawford county prosecutor, appeared for the state.

Error Charged

Application on Massa's behalf was based on an alleged error in the indictment which stated specifically that Wilcox was killed on June 27, whereas he died Aug. 3 as the result of the wounds, which Massa was alleged to have inflicted. Counsel for Sites and McCartney said the jury was prejudiced by instructions of the court bearing upon withholding or pronouncing recommendation of mercy, while McCartney's attorney argued that identification of a pistol allegedly used by McCartney in the crime was not definitely established.

Sites' attorney told the court that the jury was prejudiced by admission of a purported signed confession of Sites which the prosecutor of Richland county admitted was not in Sites' exact words, and that Sites testified at his trial that he did not make the statements contained in the purported confession.

Did Not Take Part

He also cited testimony of Sites in which the latter said officers investigating the case had offered him leniency if he would make a full statement. The court was told that Sites did not actually participate in the crime, but was in a side room of the filling station while the crime was being committed.

The court of appeals upheld the convictions. The three men were to have been electrocuted early in January, but recently were granted a stay until Jan. 30 pending filing of the motion today.

The supreme court took the petition under advisement.

RADIO PILLOW IS NEWEST WRINKLE

A "singing" and "talking" radio pillow for use in hospitals and Pulman cars has just been developed by the Engineering Products Division of the RCA Victor Company, Inc., it was disclosed today.

The radio pillow is of regulation hospital size, and is made of specially selected sponge rubber in which a sensitive radio reproducing unit is concealed. It is so constructed that although the sound permeates the pillow it cannot be heard except by resting the head on the pillow.

The radio pillow was designed especially for use in hospitals to replace ordinary earphones which become irksome and chafe when worn for any length of time. The loudspeaker is often impracticable too, because the radio programs may be disturbing to other patients in various stages of illness.

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

CLARA BOW GOT BREAK WHEN CAST IN "NO LIMIT"

Vivacious Red-Headed Screen Star To Appear Here at Palace.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

SOMEONE, somewhere has something against Clara Bow. They've named her latest, and some say her last, picture "No Limit." It comes to the Palace Friday and Saturday.

Poor Clara, just one hardluck break after another. But she got a break with the rest of the cast for "No Limit." Stuart Erwin and Harry Green are the laugh-getters and Norman Foster is the love interest.

Green is cast as a dialectic theater manager. Viola Brothers Shore and Salisbury Field wrote the screen play and Frank Tuttle directed. All of the exterior scenes were made in New York City. You'll remember Norman Foster as the young Broadway actor who made his debut in the title role of "Young Man of Manhattan."

TO GLORIFY LAND OF HOT TAMALES

The land of hot tamales is glorified in "Captain Thunder" showing at the Ohio Friday and Saturday. Victor Varconi is the young man whose kisses were as hot as chili con carne!

Fay Wray, Varconi, Charles Judels and Natalie Moorhead have the featured roles.

Just who is "Captain Thunder?" He is the adventurous hot tamale heartbreaker of the Mexican Badlands, known as Captain Thunder. What the captain doesn't know about women, cattle rustling and straight-shooting is nobody's business. He is the latest version of the Don Juan tradition.

Many rare pieces of jewelry from Spain and Old Mexico are worn by Miss Wray. The earrings which she wears are valued heirlooms of one of the oldest families in California, having been brought from Spain when the family took up a land grant on the Pacific Coast. The bracelets worn date much farther back than the gold rush of 49.

The forward which will flash on the screen reads as follows: "This is the strange story of El Captain Thunder, a gay caballero whose word of honor once given was never broken, and whose promise was as sacred as his love for life, liquor and ladies."

"THE UTAH KID" COMING TO MARION

In Rex Lease's opinion, Santschi is the screen's most convincing and yet likable villian. "His facial features are not conducive to arousing fear," says Lease, "nor is any other feature of his personality. To nothing in the world except the ability of a fine actor can you attribute the 'menace quality' in his work as 'heavy'."

Frank Howard Clark wrote the original story and also the adaptation.

While the company was on location one of the cowboys sneaked behind a boulder where the fire hazard seemed to be at the very minimum and lit a cigaret. A forest ranger on the hill above him saw him and that one smoke cost him $50. Fire regulations are strict in California and in the dry months of late summer and early fall smoking is one pleasure players on location have to forego 90 percent of the time

GAY MILITARY LIFE IN FOREIGN CAPITAL THEME OF PICTURE

"The Boudoir Dipomat" Provides Pleasant Entertainment at Marion.

REMEMBERING one's duty to one's country and trying to follow the dictates of one's heart at the same time is something of a task if the picture, "The Boudoir Diplomat," the current show at the Marion, gives any inkling of the life of a gay military attache.

Beautiful women like Betty Compson and Mary Duncan literally fling themselves at the handsome Ian Keith, the boudoir diplomat in this cleverly presented story of life in a European kingdom. Heannette Loff is the lovely blonde in the diplomat's life who makes the most of her brief appearance. The picture with its glamorous settings, exquisite gowns and dangerous situations, is entertaining to adults.

A singing comedy with "cats" as the performers and a sketch of the little girl from Omaha who makes good in Hollywood complete the bill

Experts of the United States Bureau of Mines have found by using delicate electrical recording instruments that the wave of explosion of a stick of dynamite travels at a speed of four miles a second.

Chic Star Patterns

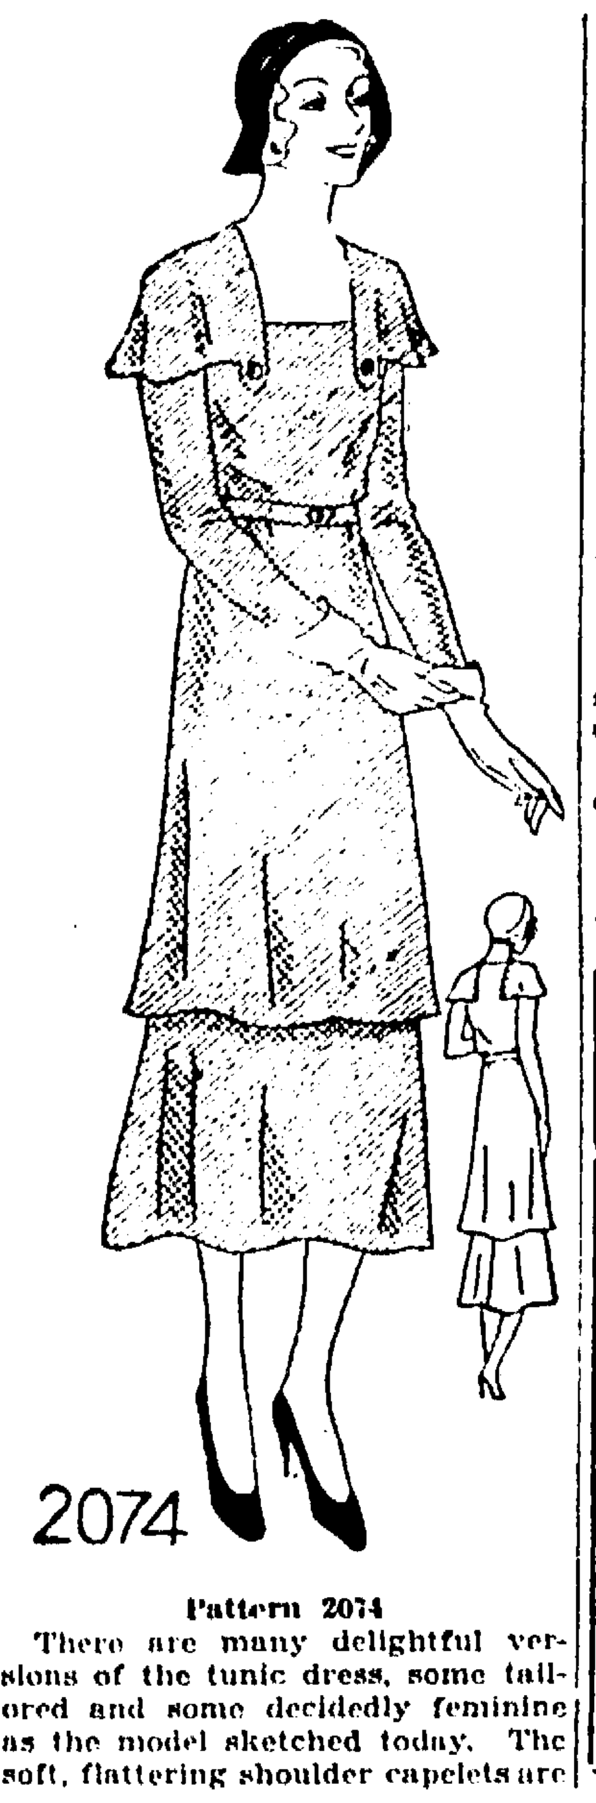
Practical and Simple

The Tunic Frock Is Smart.



Pattern 2074

There are many delightful versions of the tunic dress, some tailored and some decidedly feminine as the model sketched today. The soft, flattering shoulder capelets are the essence of femininity. The tunic skirt and the under skirt are moderately flared to achieve just the right degree of chic. The frock is belted, and worn slightly bloused.

Pattern 2074 may be made of silk or wool for equally smart effect. We suggest canton crepe, satin, marocain, wool crepe, wool georgette or one of the many novelty rayons so interesting this season. A plain color, a mixture or a print may be used successfully.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

COUPON

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents. Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to the pattern department THE MARION STAR BUREAU, Pattern Fashion Syndicate, Inc., 243 West 17th St., New York City.

Agosta Grain Elevator Burglarized of Stock

Burglars early yesterday broke into the grain elevator at Agosta and stole $300 worth of seed and flour, Sheriff Charles C. Fye reported today after an investigation.

Entrance was gained by breaking the glass on the front door through which the burglars reached inside to open the lock.

Deputy Sheriff Chester Cosgrove assisted Fye in making the investigation.

Have you passed the noonday of Life?

Then make the down road happy by keeping your strength and health. An unfailing warning of a rundown condition is the diminishing of the red-blood-cells.

A DEFICIENCY of red-cells in the blood is usually followed by physical exhaustion, loss of appetite, underweight, nervousness and pimples and boils. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is very dangerous. Common sense suggests that every possible step be taken to correct such a condition. Take S.S.S. before each meal. It will build up and enrich your blood give you new life and vitality. Your appetite will pick up—you will feel like yourself again! Keep the down road bright by keeping your red-blood-cells fighting for you. Get the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

MARION RACE TRACK TO BE LIGHTE

SHORT SHIP EVENTS IN FUTURE WILL BE CONDUCTED AT NIGHT

City Assigned Nine Days of Harness Racing as Stewards Meet.

FOR the first time in history Marion is to have horse racing at night. Officials of the Marion Racing association announced yesterday, in conjunction with the assignment of nine days of Short Ship harness racing, that the half mile track on the fairgrounds would be lighted and all future short ship events staged at night.

The 1931 Marion racing events will be staged during two periods, the first four days in length, and the second five. The first meeting will open on June 8 and continue to June 13 while the second will open on Aug. 3 and continue to Aug. 8. Immediately following the Marion meetings Mansfield will stage its annual Short Ship programs. They will be of the same length as those in Marion.

New Starting System

Complying with an urgent recommendation by Steve Phillips of Xenia, nationally known race starter the Ohio Short Ship stewards adopted by unanimous consent a barrier system of starting the events. The system is to be known in the circuit as the Phillips barrier starting system. The barrier will not be the usual overhead type used in starting running races but will be operated sideways, being released from the outside towards the inside of the track.

Ten cities, seven of them in Ohio, will stage Short Ship meetings. The three out-of-state members of the group are Kalamazoo, and Grand Rapids, Mich., and Ft. Wayne, Ind. Of the 10, seven have been members in former years while three are newcomers to the organization. The total increase in the circuit, however, amounts to only two as Toledo dropped out of the circuit this year. The three new members are Wapakoneta, Grand Rapids and Ft. Wayne.

17 Days in Cleveland

North Randall of Cleveland will hold the longest racing program of any city in the group. Seventeen days of events will be run on the Cleveland oval.

The estimated value of the purses to be offered in the 13 meetings totals $235,500.

Urbana, O., will as usual inaugurate the racing program in the Ohio association with a four day program starting on May 25. The remainder of the assigned dates are: Greenville, June 1-6, (4 days): Marion, June 8-13 (4

INTEREST in both short ship circuit and county fair harness racing in Marion should jump to a new high level in future meetings as a result of two proposed improvements in the local racing plant. The two improvements in question are the adoption of a barrier starting system and the illuminating of the track to allow night racing.

The installations of lights around the half mile local oval will give Marion track devotees their first opportunity of watching a race in Marion at night. Nights events should prove decidedly popular with a large number of business men and other workers who sometimes find it difficult to attend afternoon events.

Night racing has proved quite popular in other cities in which it has been tried and it will not be surprising to see a complete revival of interest locally.

The Phillips barrier starting system, the second of the proposed improvements on the fairground oval, should also greatly aid in building up interest in the race meetings. There are undoubtedly a large number of persons who are quite interested in a harness race who dislike to watch the obviously inefficient method of starting the horses.

The new method will consist of a barrier which will spring sideways from the outside to the inside of the track. It will not go overhead as do those used in starting running races. Of course there is no way to be certain that this means will be any better than the other. There may be defects in it which will not allow its use for a very long period of time. Nevertheless, its trial is well warranted. If it proves successful it will be a great aid to racing in general. If it does not, the tracks can discard it and revert to the old method.

Close Contests Expected Friday in County Cage Leagu

MORRAL CONTINUES AS FAVORITE TEAM TO WIN LOOP CROWN

Western Boys Engage Weak LaRue Team; Waldo To Play Kirkpatrick.

GAMES FRIDAY

Eastern Section
Martel at Caledonia.
Waldo at Kirkpatrick

Sports Editor, The Star

If the basketball teams in the Marion county cage league display their usual brands of ball Friday night there will be some of the most hotly contested games of the season to date played in the rural circuit and also some of the most lopsided. The schedule this week is so arranged as to pit against each other some of the league leaders and also to call into action on the same court some top notch and tail end outfits.

Morral High school, at present slight favorites to cop the county championship is expected to make something of a track meet of the scheduled contest with the lowly LaRue five. LaRue has not won a game in three starts and Morral has not yet been beaten. They will play on the Morral floor. Morral girls will also be favored to hand the LaRue girls another beating. The Morral femmes are in second place while the LaRue girls are trailing the league with three lost.

Waldo and Kirkpatrick boys should put on one of the evenest games in the Friday night schedule. Both have identical records of 500 per cent although Kirkpatrick has played two more games than its opponents. Kirkpatrick girls, on the basis of their past record, should prove stronger than Waldo.

Martel, the pace setting boys of the eastern section of the league, will take on a tough opponent when Caledonia is met on the Caledonia floor. Martel is in first place and the latter in second. There is little to distinguish between the two when it comes to naming a probable winner.

The situation will be exactly reversed as the Martel girls clash with Caledonia. At present Martel is in last place with three defeats and no victories and Caledonia is

TURNS PRO

Francis T. Hunter Follows in Footsteps of Tilden.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — The influence of Bill Tilden has led Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., publisher, to join the ranks of professional players.

Hunter announced his decision to turn pro yesterday. He said he desired to follow the path of his friend and doubles partner.

CLEVELAND MAY GET NEW THIRD SACKER

Willie Kamm May Go to Indians for First Baseman Lew Fonseca.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 – Reports that the White Sox would trade third baseman William Kamm to the Cleveland Indians for first baseman Lew Fonseca, American league batting champion, in 1929, grew today.

The release by the White Sox of "Bud" Clancy, regular first baseman, to Jersey City of the International league stirred up the report. The White Sox are left with no regular at the bag except possibly Johnny Watwood, who alternated between first and the outfield last year.

Kamm was purchased by the White Sox from San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league in 1923 for cash and players reported to amount to $100,000 or more. Last season he was benched some of the time for reasons never explained. It was understood at the close of the season that he was on the market.

Y-INDUS RUNS WILD TO BEAT CRESTLINE COURTERS, 55 TO 29

Last Period Spree Puts Locals Far Ahead; Gillis Gets 20 Points.

THE Shovel Y-Indus basketball team continued on its victorious path last night, hanging up its fourteenth win of the season by trouncing the Crestline five 55 to 29. It was the twenty-second game of the year for the local Y club.

Crestline never threatened very hard to cause the Y-Indus particular difficulty in winning the game although the score did not get lop-sided until the final period of play. Marion led the game all the time, the score standing 12-10 at the end of the first period and 20-14 at the half.

In the third quarter the Marion sharpshooters started connecting for baskets and Crestline found the going increasingly rough. By the end of the quarter the count stood 31 to 22 for Marion.

In the fourth quarter the Marion club opened an offensive attack that fairly swept Crestline off its feet. Gillis, Roush and Osterholt and Cram were all dropping through buckets with regularity to leave the losers far in arrears.

Vic Gillis ran his point total for the season to near the 300 mark with 10 field goals. Osterholt was next high scorer with 12 points and Cram and Roush trailed close behind.

Crestline's two forwards, Fisher and Metzger collected totals of 13 and 12 points each for themselves, several of them through loose guarding on the part of the Marion team.

The lineups and summary:

Y-Indus	G	F	Crestline	G	F
Gillis f	10	0	Fisher f	6	1

PURDUE COACH ILL

By The Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 22 — Purdue's basketball team, defender of the Big Ten championship, had an important casualty today. It was the coach himself. Coach Lambert was removed to a Lafayette hospital for treatment of a mastoid infection. He will be confined there for at least ten days or two weeks, his physician said.

BUCKEYE COURTE AT TURNING POI

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—Facing one of the crucial points in the 1931 basketball campaign, Ohio State university's court team will rely on its newly-found scoring combination in its assault against Northwestern and Michigan over the week-end.

Northwestern, now leading the Western conference championship race, will play host to the Buckeye quintet Saturday night at Evanston. It will be the toughest assignment thus far for the invaders.

Leaving Evanston on Sunday, Coach Harold Olsen and his band of Bucks will trek over to Ann Arbor for a return meeting with their ancient rival, Michigan. Ohio defeated the Wolverines last Saturday night and thus hung up its first victory over a Michigan cage outfit since 1926.

To date, the Evanston Wildcats are undefeated and have thre ference victories to their They are in a tie for first with Chicago. The Maroons won both of their league til are favored to top Michigan day. Indiana, the only Bi team to beat Ohio State so f season, rests in third place three wins and a single loss.

STOCKS GAIN ON QUIET MART

Financial Trading Reflects Optimism Concerning Business Conditions.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — The financial markets today reflected a growing feeling in Wall street that the worst of the business depression is over, but the equity share market still manifested a marked disinclination to count its chickens before they are hatched.

Despite the placing of new offerings on the market aggregating about $75,000,000, listed bonds continued to work higher. Stocks were [illegible] but moved quietly forward. Bear selling of radio around midday caused only momentary hesitation. U. S. Steel and American Telephone slipped off about a point. Rail shares were again in the [illegible] hares were again in the forefront of the advance. Chesapeake Corp. and Lackawanna sold up [illegible] points, and shares advancing a point or two included Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Erie, Cotton Belt and Missouri Pacific.

Considerable speculative interest has developed in expectations of the forthcoming interstate commerce commission decision on the valuation of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad. While the road in itself is small, this will be the first decision since the supreme court overruled the commission's valuation procedure in the St. Louis and O'Fallon case, on the ground that reproduction costs should be taken into account.

Butter went up a cent today to sell at a range of 33 to 36 cents a pound. A variation in the butter supply was responsible.

Pippin apples, a cooking variety, are back on the market. Most of these apples were locally grown and placed in storage last fall. They sell at four pounds for 25 cents.

The wholesale price of California oranges, now selling at 20 to 55 cents a dozen, went slightly higher today, but grocers were bearing the brunt of the price raise and maintain retail quotations at previous figures.

FURTHER RAINS CAUSE ADVANCE

Grains Average Higher as Weather Continues Unfavorable in Argentina.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—With further heavy rains in Argentina reported, grains averaged higher early today. Definite statements credited to S. R. McKelvie of the federal farm board that wheat stabilization operations would end in May, and that buying of new crop wheat was not contemplated, had no apparent market effect. Opening at ⅛c decline to ⅛ gain, wheat later tended to advance. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ higher, and subsequently showed a rise all around.

Absence of aggressive buying allowed wheat to slip down after early upturns. Some traders expressed doubts that announcement of stabilization operations being ended in May should be taken literally. The announcement intimated that another emergency could cause renewed operations. World's available supplies of wheat increased 42,192,000 bushels in December, compared with 12,979,000 the month previous and 30,166,000 in December last year.

Corn as well as wheat lost early gains, reactions developing as a result of lack of sustained demand. Corn primary receipts totaled 628,000 bushels, against 594,000 a week ago and 801,000 a year back. Chicago arrivals were 90 cars, compared with 88 a week ago and 190 at this time last year. Oats were relatively steady.

Despite steadiness of hog values, provisions tended to sag.

just one notch higher with two won and three lost. Caledonia should win.

Despite the fact that Green Camp is standing higher in the won and lost column than Pleasant township boys it looks like the latter would emerge the winner of the Friday contest. If the Pleasant boys are able to win it will probably be a clean sweep for their school for Green Camp girls stand but slight chance to hand the swiftly moving Court, Eichhorn & Co. girls a beating. The Pleasant girls have won four and dropped but one and should defeat Green Camp handily. But maybe they won't! And maybe a lot of other things predicted here won't happen.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

Quickly Ends Gas—Indigestion

Most people who suffer from indigestion have tried soda and various digestive aids with little more than slight temporary relief.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little pure "Bisurated" Magnesia, which you can obtain from Henney & Cooper or any good druggist in both powder and tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of powder or three tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see the difference. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without fear of indigestion.—Adv.

Mimes Score Another Hit With "East Lynne"

Little Theater Group Writes Another Chapter in Its History with Presentation of Famous Old Melodrama; Entire Show Done in Spirit of Gay Nineties.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

Another chapter in Mimes history was written last night when the Marion little theater group presented "East Lynne" at the Ohio theater. A large first-night audience witnessed the Mimes premier attempt at a costume play, and the result was a novelty to the younger members of the audience.

The first ripple of laughter came with the programs. Long sheets printed in the style of by-gone theater days. Then the boxes were filled with Mimes and the quartet in costume and after a little while the orchestra struck up an overture from Balfe's "Bohemian Girl."

Cast Does Well

There was a little gasp of surprise when the curtain rose for the first act. The stage was dressed as it hadn't been dressed since the senior class of '27 of Harding High school presented "Little Women."

The entire cast did exceptionally well under the tutelage of W. W. Clarke. The Mimes have splendid talent in Mrs. Merle Hamilton. Her voice is excellent and her interpretation of the role of "Barbara Hare" was pleasing.

After a time, when the audience had grasped the gist of the play, Wilson B. Tway was hissed as a treacherous villain. Mrs. Tway did well with the difficult roles of "Lady Isabel" and "Madam Vine" and her scene with Teddy Wetzel on his deathbed, was particularly well played. The child did well with his part.

W. C. Boyd presented a sympathetic characterization of "Archibald Carlyle," husband of "Lady Isabel" when the play opens and of "Barbara Hare" at the close. Mrs. R. G. Williamson got everything out of her part of "Miss Conrelia Carlyle," and was the most consistent comedy relief of the play. Mrs. George G. Lippincott and Miss Dorothy Strelitz had several gossipy scenes which added to the laughs.

Sing Old Songs

Charles Ellcker played the role of "Richard Hare," brother of "Barbara" and son of "Justice Hare" played by A. I Hinklin. Other shorter roles, all of interest to the play, were carried by D. W. Yambert, Paul Knappenberger and Henry Miller.

The quartet, Mrs. Eugene Moore, Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, William Ackerman and W. E. Orcutt, sang between the acts. Their songs included "After the Ball," "My Mother Was a Lady," "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," "She May Have Seen Better Days" and "The Fatal Wedding." The orchestra accompaniment was provided by Miss Clara Leffler, Miss Margaret Hoover, Edgar Barnhart and Newmon Browarsky.

The play is to be presented for the last time tonight.

Service Director Files Report on Activities of Department for Year

Dozens of improvements affecting Marion streets sidewalks, and sewers were completed in 1930, a report covering the years work of the service department filed yesterday by D. J. Harlow, director, with Mayor L. Don Jones shows.

Among the improvements are the paving of four streets, the reduction of sharp corners at street intersections, sewer correction work, and sidewalk construction. A number of earth streets were converted into solid streets, while others were treated with oil, the report shows.

Resurfacing of Main street from George street to Columbia street, Silver street from the C. & O railroad tracks to the corporation line, and of Prospect street from Mark street to the Erie railroad tracks were among the major improvements of the year. Edgewood drive was extended.

15 Streets Reopened

Fifteen asphalt streets were reconditioned and received an asphalt treatment lengthening the life of these streets, according to report.

Service department employes widened Church street from State street to Vine street and State street from Church street to the first alley south to relieve a congested traffic condition around the postoffice. More than 600 feet of curb was laid at City hospital drive, and the drive was resurfaced.

Sixteen corners at 10 street intersections were cut back to make the corners less hazardous. This work was done at the intersections of High and Church streets, Grand and Mt. Vernon avenues, Superior and Prospect streets, Delaware avenue and Superior street, Delaware avenue and hospital drive, Walnut and Prospect streets, Church and Pearl streets, George and Greenwood streets, State and Church streets, Davids street and Woodrow avenue.

Sixty-three catch basins were installed on 27 streets.

Sixteen manholes were built in 12 streets.

Sewers Cleaned

Seven blocks of drain tile on Mt. Vernon avenue and Main street were removed and cleaned of dirt and roots. The flow in the Columbia street storm water sewer was diverted into the Uncapher avenue sanitary sewer, allowing 550,000 gallons of water each day to pass through the disposal plant. Numerous other sewer corrections were made on West Center street, Superior street, Hane avenue, Franklin, Vine, Lafayette, Congress streets, Foster lane, Quarry and Prospect streets.

Brick and stone taken from hard surfaced streets during the course of repair work was largely used to convert 10 dirt streets to macadam surfaces. Those improved include, Thompson, North Senate, Patterson, Patton, Nye, Hill, Johnson and part of Farming streets, Ballentine and Neal avenues. One hundred and fifty earth streets were guttered and maintained, and 140,000 gallons of road oil and tar were applied.

Sidewalks Improved

Sidewalk improvements, consisting of raising and relaying, affected 18,299 feet or approximately three and a half miles of walk.

The department spent $4,121.32 for street cleaning, which Director Harlow asserts is not half enough to carry on the work throughout the year. Alleys were swept as part of the regular work.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Jan. 23

THE sidereal operations in force on this day point to a rather routine state of affairs, with the disposition either mopish or maladjusted. There may be a tendency to quickness and sharpness in speech which may mar the smooth running of workaday affairs, and personally the inclination may be toward prudence, economy, aloofness or association with elders.

Those whose birthday it is may not expect a particularly lively or eventful year, although much depends on rising above a tendency to mopishness, perversity and querulousness. A proclivity for sharp and "clever" speech may not have the effect of promoting happiness or progress. However the leaning will be toward thrift and prudence and an association with elders who bring benefits. A child born on this day may incline to thrift, frugality and quietly constructive habits. It may benefit through elders and through keeping a determined curb on a proclivity for quick and clever speech.

SCHWAB CHEERFUL

Declines To Predict Business Recovery But Is Optimistic.

By The Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 22—The most significant fact about the business depression, in the opinion of Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, is the "common sense which industry has shown in protecting the purchasing power of the consumer."

Schwab avoided making 1931 predictions, but was optimistic during his address before 600 Toledo business men.

He foresaw a new era of steel development when the industry will find hundreds of new uses for its products.

SEEK TO REPLENISH SHAH'S GEM DISPLAY

Emissaries in Paris To Buy Supplies for "Peacock" Throne.

By United Press

PARIS, Jan. 22—Emissaries from the shah of Persia were in Paris today reportedly charged with the task of buying jewels to replace some of those to the Shahs's "peacock" throne, the value of which is estimated at $50,000,000. They will buy other jewels to add to the $150,000,000 treasure chest already owned by the Persian ruler.

Some weeks ago French and Dutch jewelers concluded an inventory of the shah's treasure house. The experts selected as the most magnificent of his possessions the gorgeous ceremonial throne, which is rebuilt after the form of a peacock. At a conservative estimate, the headpiece alone is valued at $10,000,000, while the sapphires, diamonds and rubies which decorate the legs and arms of the throne are worth at least $25,000,000. In the tail of the peacock throne are gems which the experts say are worth $15,000,000.

The Persian royal jewel chest was considerably depleted in 1924, when the 26-year-old shah, Ahmed Mizra, was deposed by vote of the national assembly. Anticipating this move, the shah had removed to Paris in secret a considerable number of rare gems.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

Elks Head Places Wreath on Tomb of President

Grand Exalted Ruler Visits Lodge Home Here and Honors Its Most Famous Member, the Late Warren G. Harding.

A wreath was placed on the tomb of President Warren G. Harding in the Harding Memorial yesterday by Lawrnce H. Rupp of Allentown, Pa., grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, who stopped here yesterday on his tour of Ohio lodges. Harding was a member of the local lodge.

Rupp and his party were guests of local lodge officials during their short stay here. They were escorted through the lodge rooms here by Frank Wiedemann, exalted ruler, after which the party went to the memorial. From the memorial they went to Newark by way of Delaware, where they stopped to inspect the Delaware lodge.

The placing of the wreath on the tomb of the late president was watched by a score of Elks from the local lodge.

Included in Rupp's party were G. F. Afflerbach of Allentown, Pa., grand lodge secretary; John W. Kaufman, past exalted ruler of the Columbus lodge; Col. C. W. Wallace, secretary of the Columbus lodge; Blake Cook of Kent, past president of the Ohio Elks association; Harry D. Hale of Newark, secretary of the Ohio Elks association, and P. B. Bonsal of Kent.

The tour of the state was started Monday at Cleveland. The party stopped Tuesday night at Toledo and then continued yesterday to Findlay where a luncheon was held for them at noon. They arrived here at 3 p. m. and stopped last night at Newark. From Newark they will go to Columbus, Cincinnati and Hamilton, visiting lodges enroute. The tour will end at Hamilton Saturday night.

A delegation of Delaware Elks, including Major L. C. Riddle and W. C. Thomson, newspaper publisher, escorted the party from here to Delaware.

WARS ON DIVORCE

Cleveland Legislator Seeks Law to Lessen Number of Cases.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—To prevent his home city from becoming the new Reno, Senator Joseph N. Ackerman, Republican of Cleveland, today urged passage of a bill of his own designed to lessen divorce trials.

The bill would require that persons seeking divorce be residents of the state three years and residents of the county one year before filing petitions. State residence of one year and county residence of 30 days are required now.

"Cleveland," Senator Ackerman said in explaining his measure, "already has divorced half of Syracuse and two-thirds of Rochester. They come over to Ohio for divorces because the Cleveland judges aren't so dry as their magistrates are in Rochester and Syracuse."

Charged with Laziness

Guilty Simply of Acidity!

That persistent feeling of tiredness—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system. Excess acid, formed in the stomach as a result of our unnatural eating habits, causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up poisonous putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal that saps our strength and vitality, taxes our nerves and pulls us down physically and mentally.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimualtes the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Bradley's drug store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel, how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, you don't get more than amazing results, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund the purchase price promptly and in full. A-1-8 Gen- Adv.

DEFINES STAND OF HOOVER ON DRY LAW

Senator Fess Quoted as Saying President Not Opposed to Revision.

By United Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22 — Chairman Simeon D. Fess of the Republican national committee was quoted here today as declaring that President Hoover actually is not definitely opposed to revision of the Eighteenth amendment and will not "hold out against" leaders of his party if the majority decide for revision.

Fess has sometimes been interpreted as a presidential spokesman in the Coolidge and Hoover regimes, though on several occasions remarks so taken by the press have subsequently been altered or reinterpreted by Fess or others.

Fess' quoted observations amplified remarks he made at the White House yesterday when, speaking personally, he suggested President Hoover's message to congress this week indicated he would take a dry stand in the 1932 campaign.

General Vollrath's death occurred Wednesday morning following a three-day illness of pneumonia.

$25,000,000 RELIEF BILL UP TO HOUSE

Gets Unwilling Reception; Red Cross Radio Appeals on Tonight.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—The $25,000,000 appropriations proposal for Red Cross relief today finally reached the house, where an unwilling reception committee still debated ways of making it acceptable both to the membership and to President Hoover.

Last night's session of the senate finnaly broke the jam holding the interior department supply bill to which the Red Cross fund was attached by the Democrats with extensive Republican support.

A conference between representatives of the two branches were indicated but delay seemed likely. House Republican leaders were hopeful of putting across a compromise which would cut the amount in half and make its contribution dependent upon the raising of an equal amount by the Red Cross in private subscriptions.

The leaders feared that if brought to a vote the senate plan would be adopted by the house even though President Hoover and the Red Cross oppose it.

PARTY LINES DRAWN OVER TAX PROGRAM

Harmony Between White and Legislature Appears in Danger.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—Coincident with the delivery by Governor George White of his second message to the general assembly dealing with finances and other governmental matters, yesterday, possibility of harmonious working between the assembly and the executive on a new taxation system received a setback.

Party lines were sharply drawn in the senate taxation committee over the proposed appointing of a special committee to draft new taxation laws and indications developed that any taxation program that may be added by the present assembly may be a majority proposition.

The senate taxation committee fight resulted in the majority members approving a committee composed of three senators and three representatives to be appointed by the presiding officers and three additional outside members to be appointed by the governor if he desires to make the appointments. Should the governor decline to exercise his authority under such resolution, the committee would be composed of only the six legislative members.

MINISTRY STAYS ON ALTHOUGH DEFEATED

MacDonald Government Retains Offices After Losing Vote on Minor Issue.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 22—Although defeated in the house of commons by 33 votes on an amendment to its education bill, the government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald remained in office today, considering the issue at stake in the amendment of minor character. The vote was 282 to 249.

The refusal to resign led Winston Churchill, Conservative, to comment that Mr. MacDonald was "the greatest living master of the art of falling down without hurting himself."

The government accepted the amendment, which was forced by one of its own members, John Scurr, a Roman Catholic, and later passed the amended bill on its third and final reading by a vote of 256 to 238. Most of the Liberals abstained in the second vote.

The bill provides for raising the age at which children may leave school from 14 to 15 years, with an allowance of five shillings to be made to needy parents whom the law affects.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Henney & Cooper invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"Who betrays me once wrongs me, who betrays me twice serves me just right."

Thousands of residents of Mexico City are reported to be seeing stars down there in broad daylight, which is decidedly remarkable considering the fact that they haven't any icy pavements down there.

Just what its report shows the position of the Wickersham commission to be on prohibition may be open to doubt, but it's a cinch that it has eliminated another faithful old standby for paragraphic comment.

The representatives at Geneva of Europe's "Big Three"—Great Britain, France and Italy—are demanding "early disarmament" and warning of the danger of delays. Rather odd, that, considering that they have been chiefly responsible in blocking it.

President George McAneny, of the New York Regional Plan association, sees a population in the New York metropolitan area within thirty-five years of 21,000,000. Let's make a note of this and see how close his prediction comes to panning out.

The deposits in the largest 100 banks in the United States on December 31 of last year aggregated $22,158,278,318, a gain of over $300,000,000 during the year, which gives us another illustration of how little value to a country money may be when it is not gainfully employed. Record bank deposits in a year marked by record industrial and business depression!

One cable from London, Wednesday, told how the burden of English taxes had become so great that Viscount Astor had been compelled to close his magnificent estate, Cliveden, on the Thames near Taplow, and another carried the announcement that the unemployed of England numbered 2,636,168 on January 12, an increase of 15,398 over the preceding week and 1,159,907 over the unemployed during the corresponding week in 1930. One of these days the world will come to realization of the fact that there is a connection between excessive taxation and unemployment.

Fascism and Morals.

Italy is beginning to realize that there are real teeth in the new criminal code which went into effect the first day of the year and that Il Duce means to employ them in enforcing the same rigid morality on all classes as he demands from his followers.

Among other things, the code provides heavy fines and imprisonment for marital infidelity. It is said that the non-Fascist element of the Italian population was inclined to regard this part of the code as a mere gesture, but the arrest in Florence a few days ago of one of Italy's famous actresses and her commitment to prison for a term of three months is working the conviction on the populace that the Fascist moral lid is to be clamped down over the entire country.

In Rome, which today is conceded to be the cleanest city of any consequence in Europe so far as vice conditions are concerned, a moral clean-up has been going on for several years, but up to the going into effect of the new code there was no concerted effort to go into private irregularities. But the police authorities are now instructed to enforce the code without regard to the prominence of the parties concerned. Coincident with this drive on vice in private life, a campaign has been launched to free the city from all-night bars and what few street walkers remain therein. Thoroughfare flirts of both sexes are being warned, and not only are hotels of questionable reputation being closely watched, but the more fashionable and luxurious hotels and higher-class cabarets as well to prevent young girl visitors in Italy from being ensnared by the young blue bloods who hang about such places. But the authorities who are thus seeking to protect innocent young women give warning that foreigners must respect the law the same as citizens or suffer the consequences; that foreign women who come there for a fling will become involved in trouble if they misbehave.

The campaign in Rome is now being duplicated in all the larger Italian cities, and it is frankly admitted that the arrest of the popular actress, to which reference has been made, is intended as an example.

The reported result is that offenders against the moral law have become thoroughly scared and that Italy is today cleaner so far as immorality of act is concerned than ever before in its history.

Thus, in this respect, at least, the two most powerful influences in Italy, the Vatican and the Fascist government, as made evident by the recent encyclical of Pope Pius, while working separately and in two widely different ways, are in effect as one in striving to effect a moral clean-up—the latter throughout the Italian peninsula; the former, throughout the world.

What May Happen.

With the contradictory conclusions and opinions of the Wickersham commission at hand, it becomes a matter of speculation on the next move. For months the nation has awaited the commission's report as a guide for future action. The assistance, be it ever so disputative, now is available.

The President, considering only the text of the signed report, which opposed repeal and modification, advocates larger appropriations and more strict enforcement, including more territory than ever before. In general, Mr. Hoover represents dry opinion.

Considering that portion of the report presenting the commissioners' personal views, however, it is evident from the prevailing tone of dissatisfaction that the majority of the "next moves" will be toward changes in the present prohibition set-up. These changes may be attempted in several ways.

Already Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, has introduced a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment giving congress authority to regulate, but not to prohibit, the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor.

The ruling of the supreme court on Judge Clark's decision declaring the eighteenth amendment invalid is of particular importance, since it already is pending. While there is only remote chance that the decision will be sustained there is a possibility. Until decided, the entire issue depends upon it.

Lacking the assistance that might be given their cause by a favorable ruling on Judge Clark's decision, opponents of the present prohibition system will maneuver to attempt organization of the house of representatives in such a way as to smother appropriations for prohibition enforcement, thereby weakening the prohibition principle by removing the means of exercising it.

Two other methods available to the wets are repeal of the eighteenth amendment and repeal of the Volstead act. No less fervent an anti-prohibitionist than Representative James M. Beck believes the first method could not be employed successfully for another decade at least, owing to the fact that it would be difficult to obtain the two-thirds vote in congress necessary to submit a repealing amendment to the forty-eight states, and more difficult yet to get action from a sufficient number of states.

The second method, repeal of the Volstead act, would recommit the enforcement of prohibition to the states. One of the features of the Wickersham commission report, significantly, and of most of the reports of the individual members, is the rejection of the proposal to leave prohibition entirely to the states.

But it is easy to overlook actualities when dealing with possibilities. It should be borne in mind that down in Washington Colonel Woodcock is proceeding as usual in his duty of enforcing prohibition—better than it ever has been enforced before. Reports and rumors may come and go, but the bureau of prohibition has mapped out its work for years to come.

Police work is not always marked by matchless inactivity. A day or two ago one bandit was killed and six other men taken and held by the police of Hammond, Indiana, when an attempt was made to hold up out there a bank money car containing $60,000. Some real system to police work like that.

Austria is facing the most serious influenza epidemic since the World war, France is suffering from an epidemic of the same disease almost as serious as that of 1918 and nineteen states in this country report four times as many cases of flu as the same states reported at this time a year ago. Let us hope that the worldwide business depression is not to be accompanied by another awful scourge of disease. World health conditions during the past year have been the one streak of silver in the general gloom which has prevailed.

Fourth Liberty 4¼s went up to 104.2. When federal securities payable in six years and a half and callable in eighteen months command a premium of 4 1-16 cents it may be taken that investors are seeking security with small profits rather than taking chances in the hope of getting rich over night by speculating on margins.

Official bolshevik statistics printed in the Moscow Pravda and Isvestia show 547 persons executed on charges of counter revolution, sabotage and speculation. The conclusion is forced that some people are simply incapable of appreciating the benefits to be enjoyed under "Liberty and Equality."

It's not so remarkable that archaeologists have discovered in Algeria the ruins of another Roman city rivaling in beauty and extent Tringad, known as the African Pompeii. The Romans were great builders and their handiwork as such may be found wherever they roamed, which is saying a lot as they roamed all over the northern coast of Africa and the southern coast of continental Europe and the British isles.

The federal office of education, after a survey extending over a period of three years of the sixty-nine land grant colleges in the country, sees the presence of both fraternity and sorority houses on the same campus as constituting a "serious problem" and warns college authorities against permitting students to have their own way "until they meet with disaster." It hardly looks fair for a report to go to pot-shotting at all such colleges like that. Certainly there must be some which are free from abuses along the lines indicated. Why blanket them with those at fault?

Editorial Opinion.

THE DOLE AMENDMENT.

The persistence with which Senator Robinson is attempting to get congress to vote $25,000,000 for feeding destitute farmers would be more persuasive if there were not on record a statement by the governor of Arkansas that all the distress existing in that state can be taken care of by the state itself, with the assistance of the American Red Cross. This admission by the governor of his own state strongly suggests that Senator Robinson is overplaying conditions, with a possible eye to future political reward. Several of his colleagues seem to be doing the same thing. The only difference between the reprehensibility of their conduct and that of Senator Robinson's is in degree. They did not pledge themselves, as the Democratic leader in the senate pledged himself, to cooperate with the administration in obtaining the enactment of its relief measures.

The principle involved in this effort to force the federal government to assume responsibility for easing the consequences of last year's drought is full of vicious potentialities. The government can not discriminate between classes or occupations. Consequently if it feeds hungry farmers it must feed hungry industrial workers. When it starts doing that it will let itself in for more than any nation can successfully handle; for experience shows that the dole is self-perpetuating and self-enlarging. Waste and extravagance increase with the distance between legislatures and their constituents. A good many of the appropriations voted in Washington would not be voted by state legislatures, which are nearer the taxpayers and therefore more sensible to their opinion.

All the relief work that it is necessary for the nation, as a whole, to do can best be done by the American Red Cross, with funds voluntarily subscribed. Allowing the Red Cross to do it, without aid or hindrance by congress, will be wise in every way. The work will be done efficiently and economically. The country will not set a precedent for a dole. The American Red Cross, which is suffering from the senate's action, will be sustained and strengthened for future emergencies. The states where relief work is needed will be encouraged to help themselves. They won't do that if they feel that they can always shift the burden to other shoulders. The possible consequences of asking congress to do what can be so much better done through the American Red Cross are so appalling that it is astonishing to find in Washington men capable of trying to inflict those consequences on the country by capitalizing public sympathy and threatening to force a special session.—Detroit Free Press.

VOLUNTARY AID FOR DROUGHT AREAS.

In inviting a number of distinguished Americans, including Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith, to serve on a special committee of Red Cross sponsors, President Hoover emphasizes the moral necessity in the present emergency of maintaining in the drought-stricken states the spirit and tradition of voluntary aid and co-operation in relieving distress.

Whether or not it is true, as is charged by Senator Borah and others, that the representatives of the Red Cross were slow to appreciate the seriousness of the situation or the magnitude of the task to be performed is scarcely material at this time. As Senator Borah recognizes, government appropriations for feeding the needy should be regarded as a last resort. The characteristic American policy of relief freely furnished by the American public, which has not failed in the past, deserves a fair trial at the present time.

The Red Cross appeal for $10,000,000 is bringing in contributions, but at so slow a rate that manifestly senatorial agitation in favor of government charity is causing hosts of generous persons to hesitate. They should respond now to Mr. Hoover's plea for a definite test of the effectiveness of the long established American way.

The senatorial advocates of gifts from the national treasury have dramatized effectively the existing need for help. The duty facing the generous people of the nation is clear.—Chicago News.

Baby and "Catching" Diseases.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Great care must be taken to guard the baby from the germs of the contagious, or "catching" diseases. It is a very easy matter to pass on to a young child the germs of diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough or any other of the contagious diseases. They may come from one who has the disease, or from one who habitually spreads the germs, a so-called "carrier."

Every precaution should be taken to protect the baby from contact with the discharges from the nose and throat of another member of the family. It should be guarded against those who are coughing and sneezing. Kissing the child should be forbidden.

There are certain symptoms of sickness in a baby that every mother should be on the lookout for at all times. This is particularly true in the winter months, when the contagious diseases are most prevalent.

After a baby has been near some one who has had scarlet fever, diphtheria or whooping cough, or other disease, the following symptoms may occur:

In scarlet fever there is sudden sickness within five or ten days after exposure. Vomiting, a red, sore throat, high fever and hot dry skin; together with chills are not uncommon. After a day or two come small, bright red spots, close together, on the skin, and cover most of the body.

Whooping cough must be considered a serious ailment. From a week to two weeks after exposure there is illness which slowly increases. There is a slight cold, a running nose and a hard and dry cough. This turns to a choking cough and ends in a wheezing, sharp sound, the familiar "whoop" that most every one has heard. When it occurs the child's face becomes violently red, and he gasps for breath. Whooping is a long drawn out and wearing out process.

Diphtheria is a disease that once was looked upon as a scourge, and took a terrible toll of life. It is fast being wiped out, but every fall and winter many cases are reported. In this disease there is a slowly increasing illness from two to eight days after the child is exposed to it. There is listlessness, fussiness and loss of appetite. The child cries with the sore throat. There are fever, a discharge from the nose and hoarseness. After awhile gray patches appear on both sides of the throat

When there is the least sign of any of these symptoms a doctor should be called at once. If he is called immediately he may be able to abort or control the disease.

Every mother should have her children protected from some of the contagious diseases by the preventive treatment which the family doctor can apply. Such precautions may be the means of saving your child from one of these dread diseases.

Is Space Infinite?

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the most arresting and significant features of modern science is the fundamental and searching examination now being made of fundamentals. The modern scientist has turned sceptic: he doubts the axioms of the past, and questions the accepted commonplaces of the thinking of the last century.

Is time like an arrow, advancing uniformly and with relentless force? Or is it a figment of the fancy, a function of motion rather than an absolute quantity? Is space something infinite and unchanging, the same here as it is in the neighborhood of the remotest island universe? Or perhaps space depends upon matter; so that the more matter we have, the more space it takes to contain it? Does space exist only with relation to matter; or is perhaps the contrary true: as Einstein queries, is "space eating up matter?"

Physics can scarcely be placed upon a sound and logical basis until some of the basic concepts upon which modern physics rests are more fully understood. Perhaps the most fundamental of all these concepts is that of the ether. Impulses, of various sorts—gravitational force, radiation, electricity, for example—require a medium for their transmission. There are convincing reasons for believing that air or atmosphere, as ordinarily understood, is not endowed with the essential characters for carrying these various forces. In consequence, physicists were driven to the expedient of positing or assuming some medium for carrying streams of energy through space.

If we go back to the middle of the seventeenth century, we encounter the celebrated theory of vortices advanced by the French philosopher and scientist, Descartes. Interplanetary space was assumed to be occupied by a plenum filled with vast vortices. For example, the sun was supposed to lie at the center of an immense vortex carrying the planets; and each planet in turn was likewise assumed to be the center of a particular vortex, in order to account for the motion of the planet's satellites. Thus we see the beginning, in a crude form, of the concept of the ether or space-filling medium.

Ever since the days of Hook and Huyghens, scientists have been thinking of light as a pressure through some sort of non-material medium filling all space. Thus we have what is known as the lumeniferous ether; and light came gradually to be regarded as a wave phenomenon. However, with the coming of wave mechanics, the ether fails to meet all the requirements of a suitable dispersive medium.

No substitute has yet been found for the ether, even though it does not, as at present defined, meet all the requirements. Indeed, as Eddington says, "We need an ether." The physical world is not to be analyzed into isolated particles of matter or electricity with featureless interspace. We have to attribute as much character to the interspace as to the particles, and in present-day physics quite an army of symbols is required to describe what is going on in the interspace. We postulate ether to bear the characters of the interspace as we postulate matter or electricity to bear the characters of the particles. • • • The ether is as much to the fore as ever it was, in our present scheme of the world.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Pedestrian Trip in Ohio in 1838.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

S. A. Farrall, an Englishman who traveled extensively in America in the late 1830's, made a pedestrian trip from Sandusky to Columbus about ninety-three years ago, and he has left interesting observations regarding his travels. He arrived at Sandusky, then called Portland, by boat from Buffalo, and ascertaining what road led to Columbus, passed through several Indian reservations, and decided to send his baggage on ahead and walk to the state capital. He passed through Huron, Sandusky, Seneca, Crawford, Marion and Delaware counties.

The way lay almost entirely through great forests, and he saw few human beings in addition to the Indians. The soil he correctly reported as sandy for some distance, then a black loam and finally a clay loam. The Wyandots, of whom he saw many, principally at their reservation near Upper Sandusky, he most admired for their physique, carriage and taste in dress. A mature Wyandot Indian seated on an Indian pony, rigged out in his best, Farrall pronounced as a study for the painter.

At Upper Sandusky he said he was fortunate in arriving in time to look upon negotiations for a treaty by the Indians with the government, the latter represented by Captain Walker. The conference was held in the open, beneath the shade of a group of great elm trees. Marion was a town large enough to impress him even then. He said it had a number of brick houses, which he took as evidence of the substantial character of its people. He feared for their morals, however, as he noted three divorcements had just been gazetted.

Of the state capital of that day, he wrote: "It is seated on the Scioto river, which is navigable by keel and flat boats and small craft almost to its source, and by means of a portage four miles long and the Sandusky river, which flows into Lake Erie, a convenient communication is established between the lakes and the great western waterways. The town is well laid out and the courthouse, town hall and public offices are built of brick. There are some good taverns here and the tables de'hote are well and abundantly supplied."

though the fourth position won only honorable mention.

The winner received $7 in money and a medal. Second place carried with it a cash award of $4.20 and the third high contestant received $2.80.

"The farmer is his own employer, and, if his education and training have been the best possible he is better able to face the many problems which are sure to arise," Clark asserted in his winning talk. "His work will be much more pleasant and profitable to himself as well as the community. He will have confidence in himself when he undertakes a task, to know that he can do the thing the way it should be and secure the best results. As opportunities arise he will be able to profit by them while the uneducated farmer often lets them pass by unnoticed."

Praising vocational agriculture work for paving the way for the educated farmer, Clark said, "Sufficient time is devoted in the classroom and supervised farm practice is carried in addition to the school work so that vocational agricultural education is practical rather than theoretical and prepares one for life on the farm."

Eight of the 14 contestants were from Marion county schools. Following are contestants other than the four winners: Ralph Snyder of Caledonia, Carl Roszman of Marseilles, Wyandot county; Eugene Slagle of Bucyrus township, Crawford county; Woodrow Kaelber of Waldo, John J. Muisc was furnished by the Future Farmers band which will accompany Clark to the state contest Feb. 4. Supt. C. B. Rayburn, Marion county superintendent of schools, presided last night. He is one of a committee of two in charge of the contest in this district.

SIX BANDITS STAGE OHIO TRAIN HOLDUP

tained $60 in cash and a $500 watch.

She also thought that she had put a small pocketbook in her purse that contained a string of pearls and several rings, but after the robbers had left the train it was found in the folds of the blankets. As soon as she had handed over her purse she was put into the parlor car with the others.

Woman Saves $300

Acleck McPherson of Cedar Springs, Ont., who was in his berth with his wife, was awakened by the shooting and stuck his head through the curtains. A robber promptly hit him on the head with the butt of a revolver and told him to get in. He had $300, which Mrs. McPherson secreted in her corset. When the robbers came to take them into the parlor car she asked permission to take her corset and kimona with her and thus outwitted the thieves. McPherson said they robbed him of $90 in cash. He also said the passengers were calm.

"The women didn't even scream," he added.

Mrs. Dearing and Mrs. Zachrias cared for Nelson until he was taken off the train.

Mrs. Dearing said the morale of the robbers seemed to go to pieces after Nelson was shot. Several of them tried to take care of him, but only made the wound bleed profusely.

Display Courtesy

The women said they were treated with much consideration by the robbers. In the parlor car, one of the robbers, who seemed to be the leader, made two of the others get blankets to wrap around the passengers who were cold. None of them were treated roughly or discourteously, they said.

All of the passengers agreed that the job was bungled as though the robbers were amateurs; that they overlooked many valuables when they ransacked the berths, and when they searched the passengers they permitted them to get away with the most obvious tricks.

The passengers said that the gang that robbed them must have consisted of six men; there were three in the sleeper, one guarding the entrance near the smoking room, and McPherson said he counted two others outside of the sleeping car. The robbers were on the train about two hours, they said.

Nelson said he was having a terrible dream, in fact a nightmare, just at the moment the robbery occurred. He said he was in the second berth from the end of the car and had just reached the point in his dream where he was screaming at the top of his voice when one bandit pulled his curtain aside and shouted "Shut up!" Nelson, still asleep, continued to yell and the next instant the robber shot him twice.

The Florida bound Pullman was detached from the train upon arrival at Cincinnati and departed immediately for St. Petersburg.

"Just a Little Holdup"

E. W. Warner of Cincinnati, said the robbers commanded "come on, get out of bed, all of you."

"What's going on?" Warner asked.

"Just a little holdup. Don't get excited. We won't hurt you unless you resist," one bandit replied.

Warner said all passengers, clothed only in sleeping apparel were forced to go barefoot into the smoking compartment and remain on the floor while the bandits ransacked their clothes and suit cases. Warner estimated it required two hours, from 3 a. m. until nearly 5, before the robbers finished searching the hand bags.

MAAG BROTHERS SELL MARION-TOLEDO LINE

Bus Interests Operating Number of Other Routes Acquire Ownership.

The Marion-Toledo bus line, started last summer by the Maag Bros. Transit Co., today was acquired by interests operating a series of other bus lines including the Marion-Lima route, it was announced by George T. Geran, attorney for the Maag company. The sale price of the line was not divulged.

The transfer was effective today. No changes will be made in the time schedule at present, Geran said.

New coaches are to be placed in service on the line in the near future.

H. M. Rose, manager of the Marion-Lima Transit Co., will be in charge of the Marion-Toledo line with headquarters here.

Interests which purchased the route also operate the Red Star Way, a Detroit to Pittsburgh which passes through Marion, the Zanesville-Columbus, Zanesville-Marietta, Columbus-Newark routes and numerous others.

The sale by the Maags of the Marion Toledo route has no connection with the Marion Rapid Transit Co. city lines in which the Maags are interested, according to Geran.

FEDERAL JURY WILL MAKE REPORT TODAY

Eight Days of Investigation into Galion Bank Case To End.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22—After eight days of searching investigation into the shortage of $223,049.30 in funds of the Citizens' National bank at Galion, O., the federal grand jury was to make its report here this afternoon, according to William J. McDermott, assistant U. S. district attorney who is handling the bank probe.

Testimony of two more witnesses, A. E. Evensen, federal receiver for the bank, and W. S. Murphy, federal accountant, remained to be completed today when the investigation was resumed by the grand jury. It was expected that testimony would be ended by the noon recess or, at the latest, early this afternoon.

Attaches of the district attorney's office expected the report would be made sometime between 3 p. m. and 5 p. m. The jury usually takes two or three hours in deliberating on the cases presented before returning its report, it was pointed out.

James E. Casey, former president of the bank, is under a nine-year sentence at Atlanta penitentiary for his connection with the deficit. It was at the request of Casey, who implicated four other directors as having sanctioned his actions, that the present probe was instituted.

Wife Was Fat
No Longer Attractive
Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their beauty just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain in energy and activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting out pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

You'll have the surprise of your life and best of all a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs 85 cents—you'll probably say it's worth one hundred dollars after you take the first bottle.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 natural revitalizing salts your body, nerves and glands should have if you are to enjoy good health. Ask Bradley's Drug Store, Henney & Cooper or any druggist for a bottle of Kruschen Salts and start to lose fat today—and remember this, if Kruschen doesn't do as advertised—money back.

Edith J. Marriott of Baltimore writes—"I reduced from 200 to 145. When my friends say—Oh! how slender you've gotten—I say only 4 words—Thanks to Kruschen Salts."—Adv.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. A-3, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating gotire at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. CHAPTER 27

A Council of War

VIVIENNE felt Channing crush her to him. His kisses burned her lips. She knew that she was helpless in this battle with him.

Once again Vivienne realized she had brought this on herself. With [illegible] her instinctive struggles [illegible]. She closed her eyes and her body relaxed in his fierce embrace. Had she the courage she'd [illegible]? Had she lied to Channing or was she lying to herself?

Suddenly he thrust her away—though their contact permitted her thoughts to flow into Channing's mind. But he did not release her. His grip on her arm was firm. [illegible] his voice was changed as he [illegible]—and it was a different light that burned in his narrowed eyes.

"Is that what you wanted?" he demanded contemptuously. "I thought you wouldn't like it. But it seems almost impossible to teach you any sense."

Vivienne stared at him—utterly mortified. That was not what she had expected, and she did not know how to accept him.

"Now, see here," he went on decisively. "You've come to the end of your fool rope. If only for your sister's sake, you're going to toe the mark. So far you haven't done much harm to anyone but yourself. But we've none of us any assurance that you won't involve us all in a nasty snarl. Unless Crane and I stand by you, you'll go to trial as sure as you live, if Kronberg does as he's likely to do—and I shouldn't blame him. From now on you're answerable to me. Don't' think I don't mean it. Unless you play the game as I tell you—well, just try to beat me and see!"

Sullen, and staring fixedly at the road ahead of them ,Vivienne sat in silence all the way to New York. After the ultimatum Channing had delivered behind the abandoned barn he had not spoken either. He would have paid more attention to a Pekinese on the seat beside him. He wound the car in and out through the heavy traffic, with a dexterous hand, puffing contentedly at his pipe with the air of a man who has made up his mind and is quite at peace.

Not until they were out of the tube on the Manhattan side, did he make a stop. Then he ran up beside a hot-dog stand and stepped out on the pavement. "Eat?" he asked, but Vivienne gave him a look of scorn. So he left her waiting there while he munched a sausage roll and telephoned Klein's office. Then, without divulging his plans, he started the car uptown.

"We're going to hold a council," he said when they reached the theater. "You're invited to sit in. Naturally, you won't be discussed. You are my affair. In whatever else comes up, you're expected to take part."

Incensed at his treatment, but helpless, Vivienne sulkily followed him through the theater lobby into Klein's anteroom.

"Walk right in," said Sadie Kohn, with a kittenish smile for Channing. Vivienne gave her a sneering glance and Sadie's unfailing memory recorded a caustic item.

"Hello!" Klein greeted them affably. "If here ain't the prodigal daughter—and not a motion picture! Welcome to our city. Only that fatted calves ain't appropriate for daughters, I suppose, we'd have one here this minute. How about some Scotch?"

"It was a bit cold driving over," Channing accepted as Vivienne ignored the producer's garrulousness and nodded to Jimmy Crane.

"Hey, Sadie! Where's that corkscrew?" Klein called to his secretary. "All right. Close the door. I'm in conference, understand?"

"Shall I tell them—the rest—about Kronberg?" Channing asked Vivienne. She shrugged and he did so briefly. "Under the circumstances I thought that Viv had best be here."

"Sure," said Klein. "Four minds is better than none at all. And we gotta decide something. Now let's see. We got Channing's story, and Jimmy's speech is ready. As for what I been doing, the committee reports a flop. Kronberg beats it to Philadelphia and then goes to see Aileen. For all I should know about it, he might have seen Sadie Kohn. The guy just didn't tell me."

"Aileen!" Vivienne sprang up. "What—where is she now?"

"Always wait for your cue, kid!" Klein beamed indulgently. "According to schedule, she's feedin' tea to the head of a home for cripples and the Big Perfume Poppa. By the way, Jimmy, you missed a bet. Why didn't you think o' Miss Santa Claus givin' presents to them cripples? Or are you givin' Gluck the goods, and passin' me stage-money?"

"Speaking of Santa Claus," said Crane, "just what's the answer to this?" He had dropped in at the Ambassador to get the Christmas card.

"Adrasteia again?" asked Channing. "I wonder if Kronberg couldn't tell us who the goddess is."

"I imagine he could make a guess," Jimmy agreed with him. "Just the same, I doubt if he's sure. Unless my theory's completely wet, that's why he went to question Vivienne and Aileen. I think what the man is trying to do is make sure before he acts. He wants to find out about Aileen and either pin it on her, or be satisfied that she's not the girl and go after someone else. What are you going to do, Vivienne? About answering him, I mean?"

With a defiant glance at Channing, she said she did not know. "What would all of you suggest?"

"That you answer nothing—for the present anyway," Channing took her up. Then he turned to Crane. "Is Kronberg still at the Ambassador?"

"No," said Jimmy. "I asked, just now. He registered this morning and checked out this afternoon."

"That would suggest that he found out whatever he wished to know."

"Where do you get that bright idea?" Klein asked disgustedly. "Even I'd have the sense to leave after I'd showed my hand. Hasn't he fixed it so both of the girls practically have to answer him, or admit that he already thinks? Now, take this theater business. He offers Aileen and Vivienne both a personal appearance. Ain't it natural to jump at the chance? If they don't, then what's the answer? And the fact that Channing high-hats the guy don't help matters any."

"Aileen can claim that Gluck won't let her," Jimmy reminded him. "And Channing hasn't admitted that Vivienne is his model."

"A lot of good that does. Kronberg knows it—and what does he care for Gluck? Besides, he'd say yes in a minute, and Kronberg knows he would. Now you take it from me—and it's true—if they don't show up at his opening, he'll be wise that they're scared."

"You mean that you want us to?" asked Vivienne, visibly uneasy.

"You know that Dwight changed the features on the proscenium canvas."

"Ain't that in itself suspicious?" Klein replied to Crane. "Was he hiding something, maybe? And is there something besides a contract makes Aileen wear that mask? Maybe all that ain't important, and again, maybe it is."

"Im inclined to think you're right," Channing had been considering as the producer spoke. "Whatever we think about Kronberg, the man has intelligence."

"You said it!" Max Klein agreed. "When that guy goes after something, he gets it or knows why. If we got more brains, maybe we win. If we haven't, I don't like the looks of things. That's flat—and cash with order."

"It might be better to bluff it out," Jimmy Crane suggested. "If we do, we tell the world we're not afraid of him. A lot of worthwhile people will be at his opening. I dont see what we have to lose—"

"And by being nice and friendly, we give him a quiet laugh." There was no doubt in Max Klein's mind of the wisdom of such a course. He did not add that something more prompted his suggestion. Only Jimmy sensed that another, and more compelling reason prompted Klein's advice. No doubt he believed that the premiere of the new Kronberg theater would prove an interesting event -perhaps on several scores.

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

—BY ADELE GARRISON—

Madge Seeks Her Father's Aid.

MRS TICER gave an astonished little jerk as I told my father that I wished him to hear what she had to tell me. Plainly, she had counted upon telling me her news without any auditors. but I turned to her with a reassuring little smile.

"You know that my father knows all about your lodger last Winter, Mrs. Ticer," I said, "so that you surely can talk before him."

She drew a deep breath as a swimmer might, and made a clean dive.

"I saw that man, Hallam, this morning," she said.

"Where?" my father asked quickly, and I saw that he was giving her tense attention.

"In a big blue sedan, on the road from Bridgehampton."

"Was anybody else in the car?"

"Yes, three other men."

"Are you sure of this Hallam? Did he speak to you?"

"Not he," Mrs. Ticer returned spiritedly. "He didn't expect to see me, you can count on that. He was way back in the car with the curtain part way down on his side and in the back the way people keep out of the sun sometimes, you know."

My father nodded in corroboration, and she went on

Mrs. Ticer's Message

"He just happened to lean forward to speak to one of the men in front when our two cars passed each other. I was going slow, and there was a truck in front of them so they had to go awful slow, too. So I got a good look at him. I'd know him anywhere, although he had a different kind of hat and suit, and was fixed up different somehow. But he knew me, I could tell from the way he dodged back into the car the second he caught sight of me. And the second the truck got where they could pass, the driver stepped on the gas and they went down the road a-flying."

"Which way were they headed?" my father asked next

"Toward Bridgehampton."

"Ah! Coming from Sag Harbor," my father commented tapping the knuckles of his right hand upon the garden seat.

"What time this morning did you see him?"

"About half past-ten o'clock."

"H-m! Have you heard anything else about the car or the men in it? Did anybody else see them, I mean, and comment upon them? The car does not belong around here, I take it."

"No, I never saw it before, and I hain't heard anybody else speak of it."

"Well" my father said after a second's reflection, "I don't see that there's anything to be done about it. They're probably a hundred miles on their way by now. And if they were right here, we wouldn't have any evidence to hold this man, Hallam."

There was something in his voice, however, which made me scrutinize his face closely. I decided that he was keeping back some impression which he did not wish to give Mrs Ticer, and felt that I must not delay longer in telling him of the other disquieting thing which had happened to me.

"May I ask you to do something for me?" I turned to Mrs. Ticer with a smile. "I'm deplorably lazy, but I do hate to move from here just now, and Katie ought to know something at once which I forgot to tell her."

If she understood my ruse, she gave no inkling of it but rose promptly.

"If ever anybody earned the right to be lazy, you're the one," she said. "What do you want me to tell Katie?"

I had been racking my brain for a subterfuge and grasped at a straw which I fervently hoped would not prove to be the one associated with the camel's back.

"Tell her I've changed my mind about the salad for dinner," I said. "I'd like to have avocados if they're in the market and I think they are. Ask her to telephone and find out, and if they have them and can't get them out here in time tell her to have Jim drive in after them."

Madge Hysterical

"He won't need to," Mrs. Ticer said helpfully. "I ought to go both to Bridgehampton and the Harbor this afternoon, and I can bring them out with me for you."

"Thank you so much," I said but my father intervened promptly

"You are very kind, Mrs. Ticer," he said suavely, "but because you 'ought' to go does not mean that you have planned the trip for today. As it happens I must drive to the Harbor within the next few minutes and I do not believe I have forgotten how to select avocados. If you will be so kind as to tell Katie I will get them for her."

There was a courteous finality that sent Mrs Ticer hurrying toward the house. When she was safely out of earshot, my father leaned toward me.

"Now, my darling girl" he said, "tell me what is troubling you?"

"How did you know?" I stammered.

"I have not been studying your loved face during the years since you were restored to me without being able to inflect all your moods and tenses" he answered, smiling tenderly. "Why, my child, what is this?"

For I had burst into nervous sobbing and was clinging to him as if I were the child he had called me.

"Oh! Father, I am so frightened," I said, and poured out the story of the Chinese and the threatening message he had brought to me.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

IT was warm again this morning, and I got up and let Jubilee down and told him I guessed it would soon be summer now, and we would all be in swimming out back of the poor house the first thing anybody knowed, and he wagged his tail and then I let him down by the rope in his teeth and put on my short britches. Then I went down and got the milk pail and went out to the barn and there was Frenchy waiting for me.

I had told the bunch yesterday what grandfather said about the robin and Frenchy's father used to be hunted and trapper and he has got all kinds of skins and stuffed animals and birds, and Frenchy took a stuffed robin out from under his coat, and we liked to have had a fit. I snuck acrost the yard and put it on top of the fence right acrost from the kitchen door where my grandfather always goes to throw out his tobacco the last thing before breakfast, and then I went back in the barn and milked the cows whilst Frenchy and the bunch as fast as they came kept their eyes on our kitchen door and on the robin

Nothing happened till I was carrying in the milk to strain it, and just then the kitchen door opened and my grandfather got rid of his tobacco, and then he rolled his eyes around to see what the weather was going to be like, and then he kinda squawked and hollered for my mother and my father and my ant, and they didn't seem to come fast enough, so he turned around and started after them, and just then they were all coming, so he backed towardst the door again and was looking over his shoulder to be sure the robin hadn't flew, and I don't know how it happened but the next minute he was setting in the puddle of snow water that is always at the bottom of the step when the snow melts, and we were all helping him and we got him up, and he said: "Well, that's your first robin. I bet you will all believe me this time!" Then we all looked around at the robin and our cat was crawling towards it on her belly and switching her tail, and just as we were looking she gave a jump, and then she had Mr. Robin in her mouth streaking it acrost the yard and under the house. My ant and whole family was sorry, and I suppose my grandfather was but he had went in to get some pants with a dry seat to keep him from having plumbago.

I thought I was going to have to fight Frenchy, because he blamed me for it, just like I was to blame for what my cat done. I told him it was a good joke on the cat. He said if his father found it out it would be a good joke on him. If I am ever a little boy's father and have a stuffed bird and lose it I will not be mad. I can't think of anything I would rather have less of than a stuffed bird.

Me and Jubilee went to bed early. My grandfather was looking for his checkerboard.

SHREDDED WHEAT

"How do I keep young?"

"Oh, I learned that secret when I discovered Shredded Wheat. It's the whole wheat, you know, and has iron for making red blood and all the elements for building healthy tissue and bone. And by the way, it's ready-cooked and ever so easy to serve for breakfast or lunch. I just pour milk or cream over the biscuits. On cold mornings I heat the milk—it makes a most delicious hot cereal, and with fruit it's a treat at any time."
